Although but .12 inches of rain was officially recorded in the Twin Cities, much heavier falls were reported from many Minnesota, North and South Dakota points. Fessenden, N. D., reported .40 inches.

One of Minnesota's heaviest falls was reported from Brainerd where .84 inches fell.

A forecast of more rain throughout the northwest was issued by the United States weather bureau here today. Several southern Minnesota points reported rain still falling early this morning.

Leaders of the farm army movement had insisted that no attempt was being made to organize the farmers and no announcements of the printed cards had been made by leaders of the mobilization group.

Southern Cross Bucking Headwinds in Flight

Three Distinct Political Developments at Washington Encourage Hoover Workers

2 TRANS-ATLANTIC FLYING PARTIES FACE SETBACKS

TWO OIL TANKS LEAKING, THE "FRIENDSHIP" SHOWS DEFECTS

BOLL PLANE IS AGAIN DELAYED BY HEAVY FOG BANKS

Roosevelt Field, L. I., June 8. — The plan of Miss Mabel Boll to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, retarded yesterday when the monoplane Columbia was forced to turn back to Roosevelt Field because of fog, faced another setback today.

Miss Boll and her two pilots, Oliver C. LeBoutillier and Arthur Argles, had planned to start northward again today probably for Old Orchard, Me., from where the trans-Atlantic start would be made.

Lieutenant Henry B. Clark, commandant of Roosevelt Field, said he would not permit the Columbia to leave Roosevelt Field today under any circumstances. Roosevelt Field has the only runway sufficiently long for a heavily loaded plane to get away.

Clark criticized Charles A. Levine, owner of the Columbia, for using the runway at the field yesterday without first obtaining permission.

"If necessary we will employ revolvers to keep intruders off the field," Clark said in announcing his opposition to Levine's actions.

Miss Boll could not be reached for a statement concerning this new difficulty that confronted her plans. She had indicated late yesterday that mechanics would wheel the Columbia from its hangar this morning and that if weather conditions were favorable the start for Old Orchard would be attempted.

St. John's, N. F., June 8. — The slender advantage Miss Amelia Earhart and the crew of the airplane Friendship had in their race for a trans-Atlantic airplane crossing, seemed destroyed today.

Although their competitor, Miss Mabel Boll and the crew of the monoplane Columbia were still at Curtiss Field, L. I. while the Friendship bobs on the waters of Trepassy Bay, the Friendship has shown several defects.

Two oil tanks this morning were reported leaking on the big Fokker plane while it was said one pontoon also had developed a leak. It was questionable whether they would be repaired in time for a take-off this morning.

The leaks developed after the crew, racing to get oway on the hazardous flight before the Columbia had arrived in this northern area, thrice had attempted to lift the big monoplane off Trepassy waters. Three times the Fokker was sent down the course, roaring full throated, and as many times it failed to leave the water with its heavy load —estimated at 12,000 pounds.

FARM ALLIANCE OPPOSES HOOVER

COMBINES THE SUPPORTERS OF FOUR PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

Kansas City, June 8.—(UP) — A farm alliance, combining the supporters of four presidential candidats moved today to prevent the selection of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover as the republican presidential nominee.

An executive committee, chosen from the followings of Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Senators James E. Watson of Indiana, Charles Curtis of Kansas and Guy D. Goff, West Virginia, conferred to lay plans for the strengthening of the union of Hoover's opponents.

Louis L. Emmerson, of Illinois, republican gubernatorial nominee, presided as chairman of the committee.

The committee planned to contest the permanent seating of 65 Hoover-pledged delegates, who were placed on the temporary roll by the national committee over protest delegations.

The contest first will be brought before the credentials committee, which the alliance will seek to control.

Another move had as its goal the writing in the party platform of a farm relief plank, containing the demands of the middlewestern farmer, denied by the president's veto of the McNary-Haugn bill.

The farm plank is being drawn up by Senator Watson and George Peck, of Illinois, chief lobbyist for the McNary-Haugen bill, and Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska.

The executive committee's plans were linked closely with the activities of the corn belt federation of 14 states. M. J. Tobin of Iowa, federation head, conferred with leaders of the alliance.

STRIKE OF 11,000 PULLMAN PORTERS IS CALLED OFF

New York, June 8.—(UP) — The strike of 11,000 Pullman porters, which had been set for noon today, has been called off by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters on the advice of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green said the best interests of the porters would be served if they would postpone the strike and start a "campaign of education and public enlightenment regarding the justice of their cause."

PRINCESS HELENE STARTS DIVORCE ACTION TODAY

Bucharets, Roumania, June 8.—(U.P.)—Princess Helene, mother of Boy King Michael, today filed suit for divorce against former Crown Prince Carol.

The suit was filed with the president of the court of appeals—the only competent authority under statutes regulating royal procedure.

BURTON TO BE CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR IN OHIO

HOOVER EXPRESSED SYMPATHY WITH PLANKS WRITTEN BY BORAH

EVERETT SAUNDERS, SECRETARY TO COOLIDGE, TO CARRY MESSAGE TO CONVENTION

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, June 8. — (UP) — Three distinct political developments here within the last 24 hours gave further encouragement to leaders working for the nomination of Secretary Herbert Hoover at Kansas City next week.

First, Rep. Theodore E. Burton, ardent Hoover leader in the Ohio battle, conferred with President Coolidge, then with Hoover and immediately announced he would be a candidate for senator in Ohio.

Secondly, the United Press ascertained that Hoover privately had expressed sympathy with planks being written for the platform by Senator Barah of Idaho. The planks concern prohibition, political campaign collections, farm relief and foreign affairs. While no agreement was suggested, it generally is understood Borah will support Hoover if Hoover's leaders in the convention support his planks.

Thirdly, there was further confirmation of reports that Everett Saunders, secretary to Mr. Coolidge, will take a message either verbally or in writing to the Kansas City convention. The message is expected to be used to dissuade certain republican leaders who are said to be working to draft Mr. Coolidge for the nomination.

The three developments had no direct connection, but the Hoover leaders pieced them together to substantiate their arguments that Mr. Coolidge would not permit the convention to nominate him and that the anti-Hoover forces are showing signs of weakening.

Burton's friends do not believe under any conditions he would have announced his candidacy unless he had been assured the situation is as the Hoover leaders claim. The Hoover-Willis and later Hoover-anti-Hoover primary campaign in Ohio was very bitter.

Borah has been regarded as an opponent of Hoover. Borah is a candidate himself and has 11 delegates from his home state under his control. He is known to have been displeased several weeks ago when Hoover leaders claimed the Borah delegates were for Hoover as a second choice.

If Hoover's convention representatives help Borah write his sort of a platform, there is no question but that Idaho's 11 votes will be in the Hoover column early in the balloting, if not at the outset.

Methods of Hoover's Supporters Condemned, Getting Southern Votes

Washington, June 8. — (UP) — Methods of Herbert Hoover's supporters at Kansas City in securing the votes of southern delegates were condemned by implication in a statement issued here late yesterday by Senator Norris of Nebraska.

"The country is witnessing a spectacle that occurs every four years," he said. "It is the buying, trading and trafficking in delegates from the solid south to the republican national convention. The newspapers announce that these contests have been settled.

"They have been handled and dealt in just like the merchant sells his goods across the counter."

Kansas City, June 8.—James W. Good, campaign manager for Herbert Hoover, today termed as "unjustified" the charges of Senator Norris of Nebraska that southern delegates to the republican national convention were being "bought and traded."

6 SAILORS KILLED, 6 SERIOUSLY HURT AS MINE EXPLODES

Berlin, June 8. (U.P.)—Six sailors were killed, six seriously injured and others slightly injured in the explosion of a mine aboard a minesweeper during naval maneuvers off Schleimurde, it was announced officially today.

Naval staff headquarters told the United Press the explosion occurred at 7 p. m. yesterday. Schleimurde is north of Kiel, the famous Baltic sea naval base.

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL NOW HOLDS DOUBTFUL STATUS

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE FAILED TO ATTACH HIS SIGNATURE BY LAST MIDNIGHT

STATED PRESIDENT BELIEVES HE KILLED IT BY "POCKET VETO"

Washington, June 8.—(UP)—The Muscle Shoals bill held doubtful status today through failure of Pres. Coolidge to attach his signature to the measure by last midnight.

It was authoritatively stated the president believed he had killed the measure by "pocket veto."

Senator Norris of Nebraska, leading proponent of the bill, maintained on the other hand that it had become law. He plans to make a test, by inserting appropriations for conduct of the work in an appropriation bill next session. This would throw the matter into the courts if the government contested his action.

The measure, designed to have the government manufacture nitrates, develop and sell power, and produce fertilizer for experiment as its wartime plant in Alabama, was passed by congress a few days before the end of the recent session.

Ten days, excepting Sunday, followed without the president either signing or vetoing the measure. The ten days expired last midnight.

TAXICAB DRIVER MYSTERY CLEARING UP

Minneapolis, June 8—(UP)—The mysterious disappearance of F. L. Kramer, taxicab driver, and Milton Lessard, his 16-year-old companion, became less confounding today when two children reported to police that the pair had been seen in their own neighborhood.

Police had been aroused for three days over Kramer's disappearance aftr his cab had been found in Rochester, battered by hammers and pierced by bullets. Taxi officials feared that Kramer had been abducted, robbed and slain.

Alvin Lafave, 14, and Ester, 11, his sister, declared that they had seen Kramer drive near Kramer's home in a small car.

TRUCK DRIVER OF ST. CLOUD ARRESTED

St. Paul, June 8.—(UP)—A truck driver who said he was Kenneth Johnson of St. Cloud, was arrested on a charge of drunkenness here today following an automobile accident in which a woman was injured.

Miss Edna Banks, 19, was struck by the truck while on her way to work. The driver sped away. Pedestrians chased the truck which was finally overtaken by Patrolman Ray Micko who commandeered a passing automobile.

Miss Banks suffered scalp lacerations and may have concussion of the brain.

AERIAL PAMPHLET BOMBARDMENT OF NICARAGUAN REBELS

Managua, Nicaragua, June 8. — (UP)—United States marine forces are to conduct a great aerial pamphlet bombardment of the Nicaraguan rebels, it was learned today, in an effort to have the rebels surrender peaceably.

The pamphlets in the name of the Nicaraguan government will offer amnesty and pardon to all now under arms against the marines, provided they surrender with their arms and equipment.

SPEEDING FROM THE FIJI ISLANDS TO AUSTRALIA

LAST NIGHT PLANE RODE THRU WORST STORM OF ENTIRE PACIFIC COURSE

TORRENTIAL RAINS, "BUMPY" AIR CUT DOWN SPEED OF SOUTHERN CROSS

Brisbane, Australia, June 9 (Saturday).—The monoplane Southern Cross, flying at an estimated speed of from 80 to 100 miles an hour was 290 miles off the coast of Australia at 5:15 A. M. (11:15 A. M., P. C. S. T.) according to a radio message from the plane.

If this speed is maintained by the craft it should reach Brisbane between 8:15 A. M. and 9 A. M. (2:15 P. M. and 3 P. M., P. C. S. T.)

Sydney, N. S. W., June 9. (Saturday)—(UP)—Fewer than 500 miles of ocean flying separated the trans-Pacific monoplane Southern Cross from the continent of Australia at 2 A. M. (8 A. M., P. C. S. T.) a radio message from the plane said.

The plane was 498 miles out of Brisbane, the goal of the fliers.

San Francisco, June 8—The Radio Corporation of America at 9:58 A. M. Pacific standard time today received a message relayed from Honolulu saying the Southern Cross reported "we now have only 408 miles more to go."

The message, sent by the plane a short time before, was picked up in Australia and sent on to Honolulu, where the Radio Corporation relayed it to the mainland.

Sydney, Australia, June 9 (Saturday)—The airplane Southern Cross, on its way from the Fiji Islands, reported itself progressing excellently, 838 miles from Brisbane, its destination, at 8 A. M., E. S. T. Friday.

Two hours later the Southern Cross was 708 miles from Brisbane, encountering headwinds, but flying well.

Brisbane, Australia, June 8.—The Southern Cross was speeding safely along the last half of its course from the Fiji Islands to Australia late tonight after riding through the worst storm of its entire Pacific flight.

At 5:30 A. M. Pacific coast standard time, it was estimated the plane had covered between 900 and 950 miles of the 1795 mile journey from Suva to Brisbane.

The plane took off from Naselai Beach, near Suva, at 6:55 P. M. on Thursday, Pacific coast standard time.

The Southern Cross lifted from the sands of Naselai Beach with a stiff cross wind blowing but made the take-off successfully.

With a fuel load of 808 gallons of gasoline and 32 gallons of oil, it was estimated the plane could remain in the air a maximum of 25 hours.

Captain Kingsford-Smith and his companions, Charles T. Ulm, relief pilot, Harry Lyon, navigator, and James E. Warner, radio operator, had hoped on their departure from Suva to be in Brisbane at 8:30 A. M. Saturday, making the flight in less than 19 hours.

But the violent storm the Southern Cross encountered during the night cut down its average speed, and the arrival here will be somewhat later.

For the first few hours out of Suva the plane encountered perfect flying conditions. The only difficulty during that stage of the flight was trouble that suddenly developed with the radio generator.

Warner began sending with batteries, giving frequent messages on the progress of the flight which told of the motors functioning perfectly as on the previous flights.

FARM ALLIANCE OPPOSES HOOVER

COMBINES THE SUPPORTERS OF FOUR PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

Kansas City, June 8.—(UP) — A farm alliance, combining the supporters of four presidential candidats moved today to prevent the selection of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover as the republican presidential nominee.

An executive committee, chosen from the followings of Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Senators James E. Watson of Indiana, Charles Curtis of Kansas and Guy D. Goff, West Virginia, conferred to lay plans for the strengthening of the union of Hoover's opponents.

Louis L. Emmerson, of Illinois, republican gubernatorial nominee, presided as chairman of the committee.

The committee planned to contest the permanent seating of 65 Hoover-pledged delegates, who were placed on the temporary roll by the national committee over protest delegations.

The contest first will be brought before the credentials committee, which the alliance will seek to control.

Another move had as its goal the writing in the party platform of a farm relief plank, containing the demands of the middlewestern farmer, denied by the president's veto of the McNary-Haugn bill.

The farm plank is being drawn up by Senator Watson and George Peck, of Illinois, chief lobbyist for the McNary-Haugen bill, and Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska.

The executive committee's plans were linked closely with the activities of the corn belt federation of 14 states. M. J. Tobin of Iowa, federation head, conferred with leaders of the alliance.

STRIKE OF 11,000 PULLMAN PORTERS IS CALLED OFF

New York, June 8.—(UP) — The strike of 11,000 Pullman porters, which had been set for noon today, has been called off by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters on the advice of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green said the best interests of the porters would be served if they would postpone the strike and start a "campaign of education and public enlightenment regarding the justice of their cause."

PRINCESS HELENE STARTS DIVORCE ACTION TODAY

Bucharets, Roumania, June 8.—(U.P.)—Princess Helene, mother of Boy King Michael, today filed suit for divorce against former Crown Prince Carol.

The suit was filed with the president of the court of appeals—the only competent authority under statutes regulating royal procedure.

BURTON TO BE CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR IN OHIO

HOOVER EXPRESSED SYMPATHY WITH PLANKS WRITTEN BY BORAH

EVERETT SAUNDERS, SECRETARY TO COOLIDGE, TO CARRY MESSAGE TO CONVENTION

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, June 8. — (UP) — Three distinct political developments here within the last 24 hours gave further encouragement to leaders working for the nomination of Secretary Herbert Hoover at Kansas City next week.

First, Rep. Theodore E. Burton, ardent Hoover leader in the Ohio battle, conferred with President Coolidge, then with Hoover and immediately announced he would be a candidate for senator in Ohio.

Secondly, the United Press ascertained that Hoover privately had expressed sympathy with planks being written for the platform by Senator Barah of Idaho. The planks concern prohibition, political campaign collections, farm relief and foreign affairs. While no agreement was suggested, it generally is understood Borah will support Hoover if Hoover's leaders in the convention support his planks.

Thirdly, there was further confirmation of reports that Everett Saunders, secretary to Mr. Coolidge, will take a message either verbally or in writing to the Kansas City convention. The message is expected to be used to dissuade certain republican leaders who are said to be working to draft Mr. Coolidge for the nomination.

The three developments had no direct connection, but the Hoover leaders pieced them together to substantiate their arguments that Mr. Coolidge would not permit the convention to nominate him and that the anti-Hoover forces are showing signs of weakening.

Burton's friends do not believe under any conditions he would have announced his candidacy unless he had been assured the situation is as the Hoover leaders claim. The Hoover-Willis and later Hoover-anti-Hoover primary campaign in Ohio was very bitter.

Borah has been regarded as an opponent of Hoover. Borah is a candidate himself and has 11 delegates from his home state under his control. He is known to have been displeased several weeks ago when Hoover leaders claimed the Borah delegates were for Hoover as a second choice.

If Hoover's convention representatives help Borah write his sort of a platform, there is no question but that Idaho's 11 votes will be in the Hoover column early in the balloting, if not at the outset.

Methods of Hoover's Supporters Condemned, Getting Southern Votes

Washington, June 8. — (UP) — Methods of Herbert Hoover's supporters at Kansas City in securing the votes of southern delegates were condemned by implication in a statement issued here late yesterday by Senator Norris of Nebraska.

"The country is witnessing a spectacle that occurs every four years," he said. "It is the buying, trading and trafficking in delegates from the solid south to the republican national convention. The newspapers announce that these contests have been settled.

"They have been handled and dealt in just like the merchant sells his goods across the counter."

Kansas City, June 8.—James W. Good, campaign manager for Herbert Hoover, today termed as "unjustified" the charges of Senator Norris of Nebraska that southern delegates to the republican national convention were being "bought and traded."

6 SAILORS KILLED, 6 SERIOUSLY HURT AS MINE EXPLODES

Berlin, June 8.—(U.P.)—Six sailors were killed, six seriously injured and others slightly injured in the explosion of a mine aboard a minesweeper during naval maneuvers off Schleimurde, it was announced officially today.

Naval staff headquarters told the United Press the explosion occurred at 7 p. m. yesterday. Schleimurde is north of Kiel, the famous Baltic sea naval base.

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL NOW HOLDS DOUBTFUL STATUS

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE FAILED TO ATTACH HIS SIGNATURE BY LAST MIDNIGHT

STATED PRESIDENT BELIEVES HE KILLED IT BY "POCKET VETO"

Washington, June 8.—(UP)—The Muscle Shoals bill held doubtful status today through failure of Pres. Coolidge to attach his signature to the measure by last midnight.

It was authoritatively stated the president believed he had killed the measure by "pocket veto."

Senator Norris of Nebraska, leading proponent of the bill, maintained on the other hand that it had become law. He plans to make a test, by inserting appropriations for conduct of the work in an appropriation bill next session. This would throw the matter into the courts if the government contested his action.

The measure, designed to have the government manufacture nitrates, develop and sell power, and produce fertilizer for experiment as its war-time plant in Alabama, was passed by congress a few days before the end of the recent session.

Ten days, excepting Sunday, followed without the president either signing or vetoing the measure. The ten days expired last midnight.

TAXICAB DRIVER MYSTERY CLEARING UP

Minneapolis, June 8—(UP)—The mysterious disappearance of F. L. Kramer, taxicab driver, and Milton Lessard, his 16-year-old companion, became less confounding today when two children reported to police that the pair had been seen in their own neighborhood.

Police had been aroused for three days over Kramer's disappearance aftr his cab had been found in Rochester, battered by hammers and pierced by bullets. Taxi officials feared that Kramer had been abducted, robbed and slain.

Alvin Lafave, 14, and Ester, 11, his sister, declared that they had seen Kramer drive near Kramer's home in a small car.

TRUCK DRIVER OF ST. CLOUD ARRESTED

St. Paul, June 8.—(UP)—A truck driver who said he was Kenneth Johnson of St. Cloud, was arrested on a charge of drunkenness here today following an automobile accident in which a woman was injured.

Miss Edna Banks, 19, was struck by the truck while on her way to work. The driver sped away. Pedestrians chased the truck which was finally overtaken by Patrolman Ray Micko who commandeered a passing automobile.

Miss Banks suffered scalp lacerations and may have concussion of the brain.

AERIAL PAMPHLET BOMBARDMENT OF NICARAGUAN REBELS

Managua, Nicaragua, June 8. — (UP)—United States marine forces are to conduct a great aerial pamphlet bombardment of the Nicaraguan rebels, it was learned today, in an effort to have the rebels surrender peaceably.

The pamphlets in the name of the Nicaraguan government will offer amnesty and pardon to all now under arms against the marines, provided they surrender with their arms and equipment.

SPEEDING FROM THE FIJI ISLANDS TO AUSTRALIA

LAST NIGHT PLANE RODE THRU WORST STORM OF ENTIRE PACIFIC COURSE

TORRENTIAL RAINS, "BUMPY" AIR CUT DOWN SPEED OF SOUTHERN CROSS

Brisbane, Australia, June 9 (Saturday).—The monoplane Southern Cross, flying at an estimated speed of from 80 to 100 miles an hour was 290 miles off the coast of Australia at 5:15 A. M. (11:15 A. M., P. C. S. T.) according to a radio message from the plane.

If this speed is maintained by the craft it should reach Brisbane between 8:15 A. M. and 9 A. M. (2:15 P. M. and 3 P. M., P. C. S. T.)

Sydney, N. S. W., June 9. (Saturday)—(UP)—Fewer than 500 miles of ocean flying separated the trans-Pacific monoplane Southern Cross from the continent of Australia at 2 A. M. (8 A. M., P. C. S. T.) a radio message from the plane said.

The plane was 498 miles out of Brisbane, the goal of the fliers.

San Francisco, June 8—The Radio Corporation of America at 9:58 A. M. Pacific standard time today received a message relayed from Honolulu saying the Southern Cross reported "we now have only 408 miles more to go."

The message, sent by the plane a short time before, was picked up in Australia and sent on to Honolulu, where the Radio Corporation relayed it to the mainland.

Sydney, Australia, June 9 (Saturday)—The airplane Southern Cross, on its way from the Fiji Islands, reported itself progressing excellently, 838 miles from Brisbane, its destination, at 8 A. M., E. S. T. Friday.

Two hours later the Southern Cross was 708 miles from Brisbane, encountering headwinds, but flying well.

Brisbane, Australia, June 8.—The Southern Cross was speeding safely along the last half of its course from the Fiji Islands to Australia late tonight after riding through the worst storm of its entire Pacific flight.

At 5:30 A. M. Pacific coast standard time, it was estimated the plane had covered between 900 and 950 miles of the 1795 mile journey from Suva to Brisbane.

The plane took off from Naselai Beach, near Suva, at 6:55 P. M. on Thursday, Pacific coast standard time.

The Southern Cross lifted from the sands of Naselai Beach with a stiff cross wind blowing but made the take-off successfully.

With a fuel load of 808 gallons of gasoline and 32 gallons of oil, it was estimated the plane could remain in the air a maximum of 25 hours.

Captain Kingsford-Smith and his companions, Charles T. Ulm, relief pilot, Harry Lyon, navigator, and James E. Warner, radio operator, had hoped on their departure from Suva to be in Brisbane at 8:30 A. M. Saturday, making the flight in less than 19 hours.

But the violent storm the Southern Cross encountered during the night cut down its average speed, and the arrival here will be somewhat later.

For the first few hours out of Suva the plane encountered perfect flying conditions. The only difficulty during that stage of the flight was trouble that suddenly developed with the radio generator.

Warner began sending with batteries, giving frequent messages on the progress of the flight which told of the motors functioning perfectly as on the previous flights.

HOBBY AND BRAGANZA UNABLE TO ADVANCE THROUGH PACKED ICE

ANOTHER AMATEUR RADIO OPERATOR REPORTS GETTING ITALIA MESSAGE

Aboard Steamship Hobby, June 8. —(UP)—Caught in packed ice, the Hobby and her fellow rescue ship, the Braganza, were unable today either to advance on their search for the lost polar dirigible Italia or retreat to Kings Bay.

A vigil all last night brought no further radio signals such as those yesterday that might have been from the Italia.

King's Bay, Spitzbergen, June 8.—(UP)—The supply ship Citta di Milano today received repeated incomplete radio signals whcih her wireless operator believed he recognized as coming from the lost dirigible Italia and which were thought to emanate from Franz Josef Land.

The Citta di Milano operator said he thought he recognized, in the signals, the touch of the Italia's radio man.

Though there was nothing really definite, hope here was revived by the Citta di Milano's news.

Now seventeen days out, the Italia carried one month's food supply. Her crew of 16, if they succeeded in making a safe landing, believed they would be able to subsist.

If it developed that the Italia's crew are on Franz Josef Land, north of the Russian coast, one of the three Russian icebreaker rescue ships or one of the two Russian airplanes, should be first to reach the scene.

Altoona, Pa., June 8.—(UP)—Clyde Amos, amateur radio operator here, reported intercepting a radio message bearing on the dirigible Italia, now lost for two weeks.

The message said the position of the Italia now was 84:15:10 north and 15:21:40 east (north and slightly east of Spitzbergen).

Amos said he missed part of the signal.

Rome, June 8.—(UP)—An official communique issued here today announced the steamer Citta di Milano had intercepted radio signals that might have originated with the lost dirigible Italia.

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 8. —Hope that the dirigible Italia, from which nothing has been heard since two weeks ago, soon might be found increased today with receipt of new radio signals by the Citta Di Milano, supply ship.

he commander of the vessel told the United Press that several weak, garbled messages had been received within the last few hours.

"We are not certain they emanate from the crew of the Italia, but the possibility appears greater than hitherto," the commander said.

The messages intercepted, although garbled and weak, definitely called for help, the commander said.

Despite constant vigilance by those working the radio on the Citta Di Milano they could not learn the exact position from where the messages were sent.

It is the first time in the long period that has passed since General Umberto Nobile, commander of the Italia, radioed that he was striking head winds, that the Citta Di Milano has heard signals they believed might tend to throw light on the fate of the Italia.

FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1928

YOUNGQUIST, ATTORNEY GENERAL

THE DISPATCH believes G. A. Youngquist deserves election. He is the right man for the position of attorney general of the State of Minnesota, an office to which he was appointed by Governor Christianson.

On Tuesday, March 27, he filed as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office which he now holds. He was appointed Attorney General on February 2 this year, after having served as an assistant attorney general since 1921. During that time he appeared in the state courts and in the Supreme Court of the United States in a number of important cases for the State of Minnesota.

In reviewing his services, the Aitkin Republican mentions that Mr. Youngquist attended the St. Paul College of Law, at the same time taking up and completing a high school course. Upon graduation in 1909 he opened a law office in Thief River Falls, moving to Crookston the next year. He served four years as county attorney of Polk county. During the World War he was commissioned captain in the Army Service Corps and was stationed at Camp Upton, N. Y."

The Luverne Herald states that "in the finest sense of the term, Mr. Youngquist is a self-made man. His work as assistant attorney general won for him promotion to head of the department. Minnesota Republicans should get back of Mr. Youngquist and give him their solid and earnest support. He has proved his worthiness, and his election will assure the state an attorney general of exceptional ability and fitness."

The Milan Standard asserts that "if the voters generally knew his ability, depth of reasoning power, knowledge of law, excellent judgment and charming personality—combining all the requisites for a most successful administration of the office—any opposition to Mr. Youngquist will be nothing but a feeble gesture."

The Minneapolis Journal reviews his work. "The bare record of the new official's climb to prominence is enough to indicate unusual ability. Coming to Minnesota as the child of immigrant parents, he went from the farm to office work in the city, working his way through a night law course and at the same time making up the high school course out of school. In less than ten years of practice after admission to the bar, he had won honors from his associates in the profession that showed they recognized him as a 'comer.' Army service interrupted his professional progress, but now at the age of forty-two he is conceded to merit selection by the Governor as chief legal adviser to the State," and, we may add, deserves election to the post to which he was so appointed.

THE WORLD'S BEST SELLER

BEST sellers come and go. Histories loom for a few years and are forgotten, but the Book of Books, the Bible, considered reverently as a human institution, remains supreme, the most famous and beloved of all books, the most widely read, the universal staff and comforter, says the Duluth Herald.

The Bible has been translated into 830 different languages, some of which are no longer spoken, so that it is often the only monument to an extincct people. But in general tongues into which it has been written live so that its messages may be read by all the world. It may be read in Georgian, Syraic, Chinese, Gaelic, Coptic, Lithuanian, Malagassy, Lettish, Aztec, Arabic, Persian, Tapi, Eskimo, Yoroba, Swahili and more than eight hundred other tongues, ancient and modern.

Lately in Duluth the Rev. Henry E. Ramseyer, a lover of the Word, a studious antiquarian, invited the public to view his collection of a hundred and fifty Bibles, some of them in current tongues and many in rare and curious languages. Some of the Bibles are in ornate bindings and noble print while others are simple and unpretending. Some were printed during the first decades of the printing art and a few go back to the times when Bibles were written with pens on parchment.

Those who saw this collection were fortunate. People came from distant places, making long journeys to see it. And now for lack of room these Bibles, each wtih a history connected with races, tongues and persons, have been wrapped up reverentially and stored away. It is not too much to say that this Ramseyer collection is one of the leading ones in the country and undoubtedly the best west of Chicago. It is worth its weight in gold.

Truly the Bible, even merely as a human work, is wonderful. It permeates the world. It brings joy to all peoples in all places. It elevates mankind, and is a bond of universal brotherhood.

RAIN COMES AT LAST

RAIN fell last night, eighty-four hundredths of an inch, and benefited all growing things. It broke a drought which had lasted since May 14.

In town one could see the grass revive, as parched sections eagerly absorbed the precious moisture. Out in the fields and gardens, growing things were stimulated. Trees plumed their tops.

Road workers welcomed the rain, for it settled the dust and enabled maintenance work to be carried on with some degree of success. Moisture acts as a binder and permits clay to be used in repairing holes in gravel roads.

It is wonderful how such a rainfall clears the air. The atmosphere really becomes charged with electricity, life-giving and life sustaining. Human as well as plant life is refreshed and invigorated.

Many people prayed for that rain and pastors of some churches advised congregations to utter such prayers.

BRAINERD and the Lake Region welcome a group of conventions next week and a Farm Picnic that will be source of pleasure to all concerned. The hope is expressed that the visit of the convention people will be a profitable one, giving them a world of recreation and entertainment and imprinting indelible memories of the glories of the lake country. Some, it is hoped, may be so favorably impressed as to become part of our lake dwelling country.

To Make Money Stable

The Stable Money association was organized to promote stabilization of the purchasing power of money by special understanding of the serious evils attending wide fluctuations in the general price level, the preventability of such fluctuations and the various methods proposed for stabilization.

Fireproof Linoleum

Introduction of a kind of linoleum that is almost incombustible, cheap, easy to handle and durable, has been announced in England. When it is heated to a high temperature, a chemical in it gives off a gas which stays close to the floor, cuts off the air supply and so smothers the blaze.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The DAIRY

FEED FOR DAIRY COW ON PASTURE

With blue grass pasture the main spring and summer feed, the problem of getting the most profit out of a herd of good dairy cows calls for additional feeding, according to E. C. Elting of the University of Missouri.

With cows producing 4½ per cent butterfat, such as Jerseys and Guernseys on fresh pasture, grain supplements per daily milk production should be 3 pounds grain for 20 pounds milk, 4 pounds grain for 25 pounds milk, 5 to 5½ pounds grain for 30 pounds milk, 7 pounds grain for 35 pounds milk, and 8.2 pounds grain for 40 pounds milk. For cows producing less than 4½ per cent milk, such as Holsteins, Brown Swiss or Ayrshire, from 3 pounds of grain for 25 pounds of milk to 9 or 10 pounds of grain for 50 pounds of milk should be fed.

Blue grass or legume pasture will supply enough protein so that home-grown energy-producing feeds such as corn, oats and barley can be used to supplement the grass. Later in the season or where the pasture is short, more protein feed should be supplied.

A recommended grain ration with summer pasture is 300 pounds of ground corn or barley; 200 pounds of ground oats or wheat bran; and 50 pounds of cottonseed meal or an abundance of legume feeds. Later in the season, the amount of corn should be reduced to 200 pounds and the cottonseed meal or other protein supplement increased up to 100 pounds.

A small field of sudan grass will provide good pasture that will help to tide over the August-September pasture shortage. A limited field with 25 pounds of sudan seed drilled per acre will provide a good crop and will pasture up to two head per acre. This will help to keep the cows in better condition and will lessen the fall slump resulting from the pasture shortage.

Roots for Dairy Cattle Supply Succulent Feed

The chief function of roots in cattle feeding is to supply a succulent feed. Under general farm conditions the quantity of nutrients grown per acre in root crops is small in comparison to the cost of production. These root crops, however, can be preserved during the winter equally well whether large or small quantities are fed each day, and therefore have special application when only a few cows are to be fed. Of the different root crops, mangel-wurzels furnish the greatest yield per acre. Other kinds of beets and turnips and carrots may be used. Turnips, however, should be fed after milking rather than before, as they cause a bad flavor in the products if fed immediately before milking. Carrots impart a desirable color to the milk.

Three Chief Essentials to Successful Dairying

There are three essentials to successful dairy farming. These are good cows that have the ability to convert the feed grown on the farm into milk and butterfat economically. After you have the efficient cows it will be necessary for you to supply these cows with the right kind of feed and care so that it will be possible for your cows to produce milk economically, and then you must have a market for your dairy products. Where these three essentials are provided you are almost sure to succeed, but if any one of these essentials is lacking you are almost sure to fail.

Cross Words and the Puzzle

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

FENWAY looked at the little blue sign with its brilliant orange-colored lettering hanging so bravely out over the city sidewalk and the single word "Coffee" lured him in for a cup.

He felt the need of something anyway as, not an hour before, he and the one girl had had very cross words—so cross, in fact, that Fenway wondered what it had really all been about.

Once inside he sat down to a cozy table in the bow window and waited for the waitress to clear away the remnants left by the previous occupant. He also smiled as he saw the newspaper left lying on the table.

It was folded back to the daily cross-word puzzle and only a few desultory words had been filled in.

"Perhaps if I can solve this puzzle," thought Fenway, "I can solve the human cross-word puzzle, too. This one has a reward of $100 for a correct solution and I suppose the human one has a reward beyond the price of rubies—if one can solve it."

And while sipping a large cuful of coffee Fenway amused himself putting in the somewhat staggering words of the cross-word puzzle.

Fenway felt particularly brilliant after finishing the last word, and he decided to send in the solution.

He called the waitress and got from her pen, ink and envelope and realizing that her curiosity was getting the better of her looked up with an engaging smile.

"I'm trying my luck for this prize," he informed her, "and if I win it you shall have ten dollars."

"Oh, sir, I hope you do win," laughed the young girl. "The young lady who left the paper tries those puzzles a lot but always leaves them half finished. She has a room upstairs," she added.

"Then I must share my prize with still another," laughed Fenway, "and that only leaves me about $80." He glanced boyishly up at the amused girl. "I suppose you think I'm kidding, don't you? Just wait and see."

"Not at all," laughed the girl, "only when do I get the ten?"

Fenway glanced at the paper. "One week from today. You'll see me coming in here with a 'hundred dollar look' and you and that young lady who was kind enough to leave her paper will separate me from most of it."

And as Fenway left the coffee shop he realized that he had spent a rather enjoyable half hour and also that some one more than passing fair had arrived at the door about the same time as himself.

Fenway held back the door that she might make her exit and the smile of thanks he got made the entire world a more glorious place in which to solve cross-word puzzles.

Meantime the waitress whom he had just left was making frantic signs to him from the window. Being of a somewhat intuitive nature and reading the signs aright Fenway realized that she was imparting to him the fact that the young lady for whom he had held the door open and the one who had left the newspaper on the table were one and the same.

Fenway smiled his interest in the good news and determined that he would win that prize by hook or crook in order that he might present his small bonus to both girls.

The week passed without the world being set on fire because a cross-word puzzle had been solved and with no further effort on Fenway's part he found that he had actually won the prize. Even if he hadn't, so keen was he to become acquainted with the girl of the sunny smile and to preserve the happy little waitress from disappointment, he would have managed in some way to convey the idea that his was the lucky name in the paper.

He was relieved that he had not to resort to underhand methods, and one week from the day he was there drinking that excellent coffee Fenway again entered the room and turned toward the table at which he had sat.

It was already occupied.

She and no other was comfortably ensconced in the low chair that Fenway had hoped to occupy himself. There was, however, a second chair at the table.

The little waitress, right on the job where romance was budding, stepped straight up to Fenway.

"I told Miss Carter all about you and the—cross-word puzzle—and I don't think she'll be annoyed if I introduce you."

That sunny smile that had been lingering in Fenway's heart greeted him. He knew now that all the cross words from the other girl would never bother him again.

"Here, Little Miss," he called to the hastily retreating girl who had shown him the way to a happy solution of one of life's problems—the love game—"put this right into that pocketbook of yours and don't dare look at it until tomorrow morning." And Fenway pressed something papery into her hand.

Then he sat down comfortably beside the sunshine girl.

"I've such heaps of things to tell you," he said.

"Start right in," laughed the girl. "I'm all ears."

"Not quite," said Fenway, gazing happily at eyes and lips and cheeks and golden hair—"not just all ears."

The girl blushed softly and most happily.

YOUNGQUIST, ATTORNEY GENERAL

THE DISPATCH believes G. A. Youngquist deserves election. He is the right man for the position of attorney general of the State of Minnesota, an office to which he was appointed by Governor Christianson.

On Tuesday, March 27, he filed as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office which he now holds. He was appointed Attorney General on February 2 this year, after having served as an assistant attorney general since 1921. During that time he appeared in the state courts and in the Supreme Court of the United States in a number of important cases for the State of Minnesota.

In reviewing his services, the Aitkin Republican mentions that Mr. Youngquist attended the St. Paul College of Law, at the same time taking up and completing a high school course. Upon graduation in 1909 he opened a law office in Thief River Falls, moving to Crookston the next year. He served four years as county attorney of Polk county. During the World War he was commissioned captain in the Army Service Corps and was stationed at Camp Upton, N. Y."

The Luverne Herald states that "in the finest sense of the term, Mr. Youngquist is a self-made man. His work as assistant attorney general won for him promotion to head of the department. Minnesota Republicans should get back of Mr. Youngquist and give him their solid and earnest support. He has proved his worthiness, and his election will assure the state an attorney general of exceptional ability and fitness."

The Milan Standard asserts that "if the voters generally knew his ability, depth of reasoning power, knowledge of law, excellent judgment and charming personality—combining all the requisites for a most successful administration of the office—any opposition to Mr. Youngquist will be nothing but a feeble gesture."

The Minneapolis Journal reviews his work. "The bare record of the new official's climb to prominence is enough to indicate unusual ability. Coming to Minnesota as the child of immigrant parents, he went from the farm to office work in the city, working his way through a night law course and at the same time making up the high school course out of school. In less than ten years of practice after admission to the bar, he had won honors from his associates in the profession that showed they recognized him as a 'comer.' Army service interrupted his professional progress, but now at the age of forty-two he is conceded to merit selection by the Governor as chief legal adviser to the State," and, we may add, deserves election to the post to which he was so appointed.

THE WORLD'S BEST SELLER

BEST sellers come and go. Histories loom for a few years and are forgotten, but the Book of Books, the Bible, considered reverently as a human institution, remains supreme, the most famous and beloved of all books, the most widely read, the universal staff and comforter, says the Duluth Herald.

The Bible has been translated into 830 different languages, some of which are no longer spoken, so that it is often the only monument to an extincct people. But in general tongues into which it has been written live so that its messages may be read by all the world. It may be read in Georgian, Syraic, Chinese, Gaelic, Coptic, Lithuanian, Malagassy, Lettish, Aztec, Arabic, Persian, Tapi, Eskimo, Yoroba, Swahili and more than eight hundred other tongues, ancient and modern.

Lately in Duluth the Rev. Henry E. Ramseyer, a lover of the Word, a studious antiquarian, invited the public to view his collection of a hundred and fifty Bibles, some of them in current tongues and many in rare and curious languages. Some of the Bibles are in ornate bindings and noble print while others are simple and unpretending. Some were printed during the first decades of the printing art and a few go back to the times when Bibles were written with pens on parchment.

Those who saw this collection were fortunate. People came from distant places, making long journeys to see it. And now for lack of room these Bibles, each wtih a history connected with races, tongues and persons, have been wrapped up reverentially and stored away. It is not too much to say that this Ramseyer collection is one of the leading ones in the country and undoubtedly the best west of Chicago. It is worth its weight in gold.

Truly the Bible, even merely as a human work, is wonderful. It permeates the world. It brings joy to all peoples in all places. It elevates mankind, and is a bond of universal brotherhood.

RAIN COMES AT LAST

RAIN fell last night, eighty-four hundredths of an inch, and benefited all growing things. It broke a drought which had lasted since May 14.

In town one could see the grass revive, as parched sections eagerly absorbed the precious moisture. Out in the fields and gardens, growing things were stimulated. Trees plumed their tops.

Road workers welcomed the rain, for it settled the dust and enabled maintenance work to be carried on with some degree of success. Moisture acts as a binder and permits clay to be used in repairing holes in gravel roads.

It is wonderful how such a rainfall clears the air. The atmosphere really becomes charged with electricity, life-giving and life sustaining. Human as well as plant life is refreshed and invigorated.

Many people prayed for that rain and pastors of some churches advised congregations to utter such prayers.

BRAINERD and the Lake Region welcome a group of conventions next week and a Farm Picnic that will be source of pleasure to all concerned. The hope is expressed that the visit of the convention people will be a profitable one, giving them a world of recreation and entertainment and imprinting indelible memories of the glories of the lake country. Some, it is hoped, may be so favorably impressed as to become part of our lake dwelling country.

To Make Money Stable

The Stable Money association was organized to promote stabilization of the purchasing power of money by special understanding of the serious evils attending wide fluctuations in the general price level, the preventability of such fluctuations and the various methods proposed for stabilization.

Fireproof Linoleum

Introduction of a kind of linoleum that is almost incombustible, cheap, easy to handle and durable, has been announced in England. When it is heated to a high temperature, a chemical in it gives off a gas which stays close to the floor, cuts off the air supply and so smothers the blaze.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The DAIRY

FEED FOR DAIRY COW ON PASTURE

With blue grass pasture the main spring and summer feed, the problem of getting the most profit out of a herd of good dairy cows calls for additional feeding, according to E. C. Elting of the University of Missouri.

With cows producing 4½ per cent butterfat, such as Jerseys and Guernseys on fresh pasture, grain supplements per daily milk production should be 3 pounds grain for 20 pounds milk, 4 pounds grain for 25 pounds milk, 5 to 5½ pounds grain for 30 pounds milk, 7 pounds grain for 35 pounds milk, and 8.2 pounds grain for 40 pounds milk. For cows producing less than 4½ per cent milk, such as Holsteins, Brown Swiss or Ayrshire, from 3 pounds of grain for 25 pounds of milk to 9 or 10 pounds of grain for 50 pounds of milk should be fed.

Blue grass or legume pasture will supply enough protein so that home-grown energy-producing feeds such as corn, oats and barley can be used to supplement the grass. Later in the season or where the pasture is short, more protein feed should be supplied.

A recommended grain ration with summer pasture is 300 pounds of ground corn or barley; 200 pounds of ground oats or wheat bran; and 50 pounds of cottonseed meal or an abundance of legume feeds. Later in the season, the amount of corn should be reduced to 200 pounds and the cottonseed meal or other protein supplement increased up to 100 pounds.

A small field of sudan grass will provide good pasture that will help to tide over the August-September pasture shortage. A limited field with 25 pounds of sudan seed drilled per acre will provide a good crop and will pasture up to two head per acre. This will help to keep the cows in better condition and will lessen the fall slump resulting from the pasture shortage.

Roots for Dairy Cattle Supply Succulent Feed

The chief function of roots in cattle feeding is to supply a succulent feed. Under general farm conditions the quantity of nutrients grown per acre in root crops is small in comparison to the cost of production. These root crops, however, can be preserved during the winter equally well whether large or small quantities are fed each day, and therefore have special application when only a few cows are to be fed. Of the different root crops, mangel-wurzels furnish the greatest yield per acre. Other kinds of beets and turnips and carrots may be used. Turnips, however, should be fed after milking rather than before, as they cause a bad flavor in the products if fed immediately before milking. Carrots impart a desirable color to the milk.

Three Chief Essentials to Successful Dairying

There are three essentials to successful dairy farming. These are good cows that have the ability to convert the feed grown on the farm into milk and butterfat economically. After you have the efficient cows it will be necessary for you to supply these cows with the right kind of feed and care so that it will be possible for your cows to produce milk economically, and then you must have a market for your dairy products. Where these three essentials are provided you are almost sure to succeed, but if any one of these essentials is lacking you are almost sure to fail.

It is profitable to raise hogs and poultry on a dairy farm especially when only butterfat is sold and skim milk available to feed to hogs and poultry.

BOTTOM APPEARS TO HAVE FALLEN OUT OF SOCK MARKET

EMANUEL WINS DECISION OVER MIKE McTIGUE

SMALLEST FIGHT CROWD OF SEASON AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

AGED IRISHMAN ATTEMPTS TO STAY RUSHES OF EAGER YOUNGSTER

By FRANK GETTY

United Press Staff Correspondent

Madison Square Garden, New York, June 8.—The bottom appears to be falling out of the sock market.

To the list of recent matches staged in the east this spring, which have proved financial bloomers, must be added the affair at Madison Square Garden last night in which Armand Emanuel of California fought his way to a decision over old Mike McTigue in ten rounds.

The smallest fight crowd of the Garden season showed up to watch the aged Irishman attempt to stand off the rushes of the eager youngster and withstand the ravages which time has made in the fistic ability of one of the prize ring's oldest favorites.

Recent boxing shows at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, on which Humbert J. Fugazy has lost money rapidly, are being matched by the financial fizzles in Tex Rickard's own Madison Square Garden.

It is not surprising that Rickard, after announcing July 26 the date for the heavyweight championship fight between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney, made it known that he would promote no other bouts during July.

Whether it is that the public, which paid through the nose for its boxing entertainments during the past two years, is becoming money-wise and declining to support second-rate shows at first-rate prices remains to be seen.

Mike McTigue, who admits to some 40 summers, and has seen some others he does not care to mention, furnished the lone thrill of last night's performance when he drove a straight right to Armand Emanuel's chin in the opening round and dropped the Jewish heavyweight for the count of nine. But the elderly Irishman could not follow up his advantage, and at the finish he was a badly beaten boxer.

Mike is finished as a headliner, for he is no longer dangerous unless an opponent will go down and stay down from the effects of one or two rights.

Against an inexperienced youngster like Emanuel, McTigue had every chance to end the bout early in the evening, but after one or two blows, age told and the Irishman's arm grew weary.

Then he could only call upon his intimate fund of ring lore to keep himself erect.

Emanuel was unimpressive. He hit McTigue at will, with everything except the right posts and failed to even threaten to drop are aged Celt. Tex Rickard's hopes of producing a real Jewish heavyweight contender were obliterated by the showing of the victor.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Rube Bressler, Brooklyn outfielder, who beat his former teammates with a single in the eleventh which scored Hendrick from third, giving the Robins a 1 to 0 victory over the league-leading Cincinnati Reds.

Jack Cummings, pinch-hitting in the ninth, singled and Bill Terry scored the winning run in the New York Giants 4 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The victory lifted the Giants back to second place, ten percentage points—less than a game—below the Reds.

Pete Scott, sometimes outfielder and catcher but now first baseman, blazed the trail for the Pittsburgh Pirates to beat the Boston Braves, 8 to 6, in 12 innings, with two home runs and a double.

Shut out for seven innings, the New York Yankees called their home run brigade into action in the eighth and ninth innings and hammered out an 8 to 2 victory over the Cleveland Indians. Lazzeri, Ruth and Gehrig hit homers in the last two innings, Lazzero with one on and Ruth with two.

Alvin Crowder held the Philadelphia Athletics to four scattered hits, the St. Louis Browns winning 4 to 1. Five straight hits in the third inning, one a home run by Brannon, scored four runs and drove Lefty Grove from the mound.

Owen Carroll gave the Boston Red Sox but five hits and the Detroit Tigers displaced the Red Sox in fifth place in the American league with a 5 to 2 victory.

With Bucky Harris back in the line-up, the Washington Senators beat the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 5, the Senators moving to seventh place as the White Sox sank into the cellar.

The Philadelphia Phillies broke their nine-game losing streak when Ray Benge held the Cubs to six hits, the Phillies winning 4 to 2.

New York, June 8.—(UP)—Andy Payne, Oklahoma farm boy whose flying feet carried him to wealth and fame in C. C. Pyle's bunion derby, is going back and tell the home folks how he did it.

Andy has a mission. Just as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh made the country "air conscious" by his national airplane tour, so Andy is going to extoll the benefits of cross-country racing.

From his rooms in the Vanderbilt hotel (suites $30 a day) to which he moved from the Biltmore hotel (suites $60 a day) after paying off the runners, Pyle outlined an educational campaign for Andy.

"We leave in about a week for the tour, which will be backed by public spirited men in Oklahoma, who are anxious to advance the cause of the bunion derbies. They furnish the money, so no admission will be charged to see Andy."

Andy, who is still absorbing the sights of New York, is so imbued with the idea of public service that he has agreed not to sign vaudeville contracts or take screen tests for the movies.

2 NEW WORLD RECORDS MADE IN SWIMMING

San Francisco, June 8.—(U.P.)—Two new world records were established in the opening events of the National A. A. U. swimming meet and Olympic trials here.

"Buster" Crabbe of Honolulu lowered the time for the mile swim by stroking the distance in 21 minutes, 35 3-5 seconds.

John Weissmuller brok ehis own mark in the 100-meter event. His time was 57 4-5 seconds, one-fifth of a second faster than the previous record.

BURRUS BIDS FOR BASEBALL FAME

Made Three Amusing Attempts to Field Ball.

There are various short cuts to baseball fame. Fred Merkle made himself famous by failing to touch second in 1908. Fred Snodgrass is remembered only as a man who muffed a fly that cost a world's championship in 1912. His good deeds have long since been forgotten. And poor old Heine Zimmerman, now an obscure plumber or something up in the Bronx, New York, still has to answer questions as to why he chased Eddie Collins over the plate with the winning run in the series of 1917, writes Irving Vaughan in the Chicago Tribune.

Dick Burrus, first sacker, with the Boston Braves, never has had an opportunity to lift himself up out of the ranks in the majors, but he is attached securely to at least one minor league episode that is narrated regularly by all of baseball's best story tellers.

Burrus was with the Columbus American association club not so many years ago. A couple of runners were on base one day and a ball was batted to Burrus at first base. He picked it up, drew back, and let go, with hopes of making a forced play, but his aim was bad. Eventually, in the general confusion caused by three runners on the move, the ball came back to Burrus and he threw again. This, too, was a wild peg.

Burrus' throw was again captured. The runners were still bouncing around on the base lines and in some way Burrus, for the third time, had a chance to get his hands on the ball. This time he varied his comics by letting it seep through his hands. It is unnecessary to mention that by this time the crowd was noisily demanding that Mr. Burrus be attached in a vertical position to the nearest telegraph pole.

As the luckless but courageous athlete turned around to pick up his third error, a colored gentleman in the bleachers rose up in despair and howled so that he could be heard above the din of the crowd:

"Good lord, he's got it again, somebody take it away from him."

Before Burrus could attempt another throw Back Herzog, the second baseman, ran over and took the ball from the erring first sacker and order was restored, but there were no runners left on the bases.

Texas in History

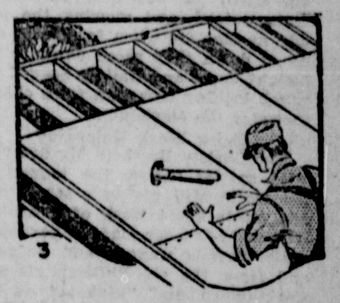

Texas became an independent republic in 1836 and a state in the American Union in 1845. In 1861 Texas seceded and shared the fate of the Southern Confederacy. From the close of the war in 1865 it was under the military rule of the United States until 1870, when complying with the requirements of congress, it was readmitted to statehood.

Silver Guitar

A guitar made of German silver is said to possess great volume, which makes it suitable for orchestral use, while retaining the sweet tone produced by the wooden guitar. One great advantage of the silver instrument is that it does not warp.

Has Known Many Changes

Texas has paid allegiance to the Bourbons and the Bonapartes, the Hapsburgs and the Montezumas. It has several times been a kingdom, twice an empire and six times a republic. It has now reached its goal as a king of empires in the greatest republic the world has ever known.

BOTTOM APPEARS TO HAVE FALLEN OUT OF SOCK MARKET

EMANUEL WINS DECISION OVER MIKE McTIGUE

SMALLEST FIGHT CROWD OF SEASON AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

AGED IRISHMAN ATTEMPTS TO STAY RUSHES OF EAGER YOUNGSTER

By FRANK GETTY

United Press Staff Correspondent

Madison Square Garden, New York, June 8.—The bottom appears to be falling out of the sock market.

To the list of recent matches staged in the east this spring, which have proved financial bloomers, must be added the affair at Madison Square Garden last night in which Armand Emanuel of California fought his way to a decision over old Mike McTigue in ten rounds.

The smallest fight crowd of the Garden season showed up to watch the aged Irishman attempt to stand off the rushes of the eager youngster and withstand the ravages which time has made in the fistic ability of one of the prize ring's oldest favorites.

Recent boxing shows at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, on which Humbert J. Fugazy has lost money rapidly, are being matched by the financial fizzles in Tex Rickard's own Madison Square Garden.

It is not surprising that Rickard, after announcing July 26 the date for the heavyweight championship fight between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney, made it known that he would promote no other bouts during July.

Whether it is that the public, which paid through the nose for its boxing entertainments during the past two years, is becoming money-wise and declining to support second-rate shows at first-rate prices remains to be seen.

Mike McTigue, who admits to some 40 summers, and has seen some others he does not care to mention, furnished the lone thrill of last night's performance when he drove a straight right to Armand Emanuel's chin in the opening round and dropped the Jewish heavyweight for the count of nine. But the elderly Irishman could not follow up his advantage, and at the finish he was a badly beaten boxer.

Mike is finished as a headliner, for he is no longer dangerous unless an opponent will go down and stay down from the effects of one or two rights

Against an inexperienced youngster like Emanuel, McTigue had every chance to end the bout early in the evening, but after one or two blows, age told and the Irishman's arm grew weary.

Then he could only call upon his intimate fund of ring lore to keep himself erect.

Emanuel was unimpressive. He hit McTigue at will, with everything except the right posts and failed to even threaten to drop are aged Celt. Tex Rickard's hopes of producing a real Jewish heavyweight contender were obliterated by the showing of the victor.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Rube Bressler, Brooklyn outfielder, who beat his former teammates with a single in the eleventh which scored Hendrick from third, giving the Robins a 1 to 0 victory over the league-leading Cincinnati Reds.

Jack Cummings, pinch-hitting in the ninth, singled and Bill Terry scored the winning run in the New York Giants 4 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The victory lifted the Giants back to second place, ten percentage points—less than a game—below the Reds.

Pete Scott, sometimes outfielder and catcher but now first baseman, blazed the trail for the Pittsburgh Pirates to beat the Boston Braves, 8 to 6, in 12 innings, with two home runs and a double.

Shut out for seven innings, the New York Yankees called their home run brigade into action in the eighth and ninth innings and hammered out an 8 to 2 victory over the Cleveland Indians. Lazzeri, Ruth and Gehrig hit homers in the last two innings, Lazzero with one on and Ruth with two.

Alvin Crowder held the Philadelphia Athletics to four scattered hits, the St. Louis Browns winning 4 to 1. Five straight hits in the third inning, one a home run by Brannon, scored four runs and drove Lefty Grove from the mound.

Owen Carroil gave the Boston Red Sox but five hits and the Detroit Tigers displaced the Red Sox in fifth place in the American league with a 5 to 2 victory.

With Bucky Harris back in the line-up, the Washington Senators beat the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 5, the Senators moving to seventh place as the White Sox sank into the cellar.

The Philadelphia Phillies broke their nine-game losing streak when Ray Berge held the Cubs to six hits, the Phillies winning 4 to 2.

CIRCUS DAY IN BRAINERD TODAY

Day of Joys and Thrills, Christy Brothers Show Arrives

FIVE RING WILD ANIMAL SHOW

Claim Biggest Circus "Big Top" Ever Used in Brainerd

Circus day. A day of joys and thrills. Peanuts and pop corn. Bobbing balloons and birdies on a stick. Painted clowns, pretty girls riding pretty horses, strange looking wild beasts, hot dogs and ice cream cones, monster elephants, obeying every command of their mahouts, jazzy brass bands, bustle and excitement everywhere, lost kids cause mother grief and anguish, crowds packing the corners and way out into the street, kids, kids, kids everywhere perched on awnings and telephone poles, bosses stenographers hanging out of bosses windows for thirty minutes while the big street parade passed. Lions roaring, tigers snarling. Traffic cops kept on the jump and motorists run past signals. That is a word picture of circus day be it either in the spring or in the fall, and best of all in the good old summer time when the kids are free of school, can earn a ticket for carrying water for the ponies and see the wild west concert for good measure. The older kids and who isn't a kid again on circus day, find the same old thrill in watching the circus train unload, and viewing the parade, as they did when barefooted and up at dawn they raced down to the freight depot and timidly begged the rough looking boss man for a chance to water the elephants.

Quick Work Unloading

The Christy Brothers big five ring wild animal shows, the biggest in the world still giving a street parade, made short work of unloading its twenty-five car loads of paraphernalia, parade wagons and animals, and from the six Pullman sleepers workingmen and "kinkers" as the actors are called emerged to take up their daily grind. In less than an hour after the long train had been "spotted" and the "runs" let down the trainmen were sweeping up the dust and cinders that had accumulated on the trip from Fergus Falls, broad backed work horses and the tractors were whisking the heavy wagons to the show grounds, the tents were going up in record time and long before the parade marshal blew the call for mount, everything was in readiness to entertain the record crowd that the circus is expected to attract during its stay here.

Big Canvas Equipment

The Christy show this morning erected the biggest circus "big top" ever used here. It requires seven sixty foot center pols to sustain it and there are seats for 5,500 people around three sides of the enclosure the other being used for the massive scenery of the opening spectacle of Noah and the Ark. There is a six pole menagerie, a side show, two dressing rooms, four stables, a cook house and dining room, all the cooking being done by steam, blacksmith and repair shops, the show carrying its own mechanics, numerous smaller tents and a lunch counter. It has its own electric lighting plant in a big wagon parked near the main entrance. There are with the big show close to 500 employees, and over in the dining room forty waiters are kept busy serving the three meals daily.

To gain some idea of the cost of maintaining a big show like the Christy outfit, for one day, the press agent avowed that the purchasing agent who travels a day ahead provided for feeding today, four tons of hay, 150 bushels of oats, 1,000 pounds of bran, four sides of beef for the cook house, and as many more for the animals. Five hundred loaves of bread were sliced and served at the three meals, and the hungry workingmen made way with four crates of eggs for breakfast.

Fine Street Parade

Thousands this noon witnessed the longest and most spectacular street parade yet to pass through Brainerd streets. There were five bands, all open dens of wild animals, several sections of good looking young ladies riding gaily caparisoned horses, honest to goodness Indians and cowboys, beautiful allegorical band chariots of red and gold, funny looking clowns perched atop of many of the animal cages, the elephants, camels, and the customary calliope at the rear end that could be heard a mile in the country and made the kids stick their fingers in their ears as it passed. The performance this afternoon drew a mob. There were some really remarkable animal features, and startling circus stunts that included a breath taking feat by a wire walker who stood on his head on a wire thirty feet in midair, two Chinese who swung to and fro by their cues over the head of the audience and a family of acrobats who even turned triple somersaults.

Worlds Closely Knit

Men speak of living in one world at a time, as if one world had nothing to do with another, whereas I cannot move a single hoeful of earth in my garden without it affecting stars so distant that their light requires millions of years to reach us.—John Andrew Holmes, in Detroit Free Press.

Name Has Stuck

Porterhouse steak is so called because this particular cut of beef was made popular by the proprietor of a New York porter house.

Jaws Kept Busy

While sitting in a civil case Supreme Court Justice Morschauser of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., enlisted the aid of two lawyers to secretly count the jaw strokes of two witnesses, a man and a woman, chewing gum. It was found that the woman averaged 69 strokes to the minute, while the man made 84.

Rest Periods Effective

Practical experiments in factories and mercantile establishments show that under controlled conditions a spell of work broken by a short rest is more effective than an unbroken spell of the same length.

Icebergs Miles Long

Icebergs float so that almost nine times their visible bulk is submerged. In Baffin bay Sir John Ross saw icebergs aground in 1,500 feet of water. Antarctic icebergs, though rarely over 200 feet in height, are often vast plateaux, table-topped, that have been known to reach 30 miles in length.

CIRCUS DAY IN BRAINERD TODAY

Day of Joys and Thrills, Christy Brothers Show Arrives

FIVE RING WILD ANIMAL SHOW

Claim Biggest Circus "Big Top" Ever Used in Brainerd

Circus day. A day of joys and thrills. Peanuts and pop corn. Bobbing balloons and birdies on a stick. Painted clowns, pretty girls riding pretty horses, strange looking wild beasts, hot dogs and ice cream cones, monster elephants, obeying every command of their mahouts, jazzy brass bands, bustle and excitement everywhere, lost kids cause mother grief and anguish, crowds packing the corners and way out into the street, kids, kids, kids everywhere perched on awnings and telephone poles, bosses stenographers hanging out of bosses windows for thirty minutes while the big street parade passed. Lions roaring, tigers snarling. Traffic cops kept on the jump and motorists run past signals. That is a word picture of circus day be it either in the spring or in the fall, and best of all in the good old summer time when the kids are free of school, can earn a ticket for carrying water for the ponies and see the wild west concert for good measure. The older kids and who isn't a kid again on circus day, find the same old thrill in watching the circus train unload, and viewing the parade, as they did when barefooted and up at dawn they raced down to the freight depot and timidly begged the rough looking boss man for a chance to water the elephants.

Quick Work Unloading

The Christy Brothers big five ring wild animal shows, the biggest in the world still giving a street parade, made short work of unloading its twenty-five car loads of paraphernalia, parade wagons and animals, and from the six Pullman sleepers workingmen and "kinkers" as the actors are called emerged to take up their daily grind. In less than an hour after the long train had been "spotted" and the "runs" let down the trainmen were sweeping up the dust and cinders that had accumulated on the trip from Fergus Falls, broad backed work horses and the tractors were whisking the heavy wagons to the show grounds, the tents were going up in record time and long before the parade marshal blew the call for mount, everything was in readiness to entertain the record crowd that the circus is expected to attract during its stay here.

Big Canvas Equipment

The Christy show this morning erected the biggest circus "big top" ever used here. It requires seven sixty foot center pols to sustain it and there are seats for 5,500 people around three sides of the enclosure the other being used for the massive scenery of the opening spectacle of Noah and the Ark. There is a six pole menagerie, a side show, two dressing rooms, four stables, a cook house and dining room, all the cooking being done by steam, blacksmith and repair shops, the show carrying its own mechanics, numerous smaller tents and a lunch counter. It has its own electric lighting plant in a big wagon parked near the main entrance. There are with the big show close to 500 employees, and over in the dining room forty waiters are kept busy serving the three meals daily.

To gain some idea of the cost of maintaining a big show like the Christy outfit, for one day, the press agent avowed that the purchasing agent who travels a day ahead provided for feeding today, four tons of hay, 150 bushels of oats, 1,000 pounds of bran, four sides of beef for the cook house, and as many more for the animals. Five hundred loaves of bread were sliced and served at the three meals, and the hungry workingmen made way with four crates of eggs for breakfast.

Fine Street Parade

Thousands this noon witnessed the longest and most spectacular street parade yet to pass through Brainerd streets. There were five bands, all open dens of wild animals, several sections of good looking young ladies riding gaily caparisoned horses, honest to goodness Indians and cowboys, beautiful allegorical band chariots of red and gold, funny looking clowns perched atop of many of the animal cages, the elephants, camels, and the customary calliope at the rear end that could be heard a mile in the country and made the kids stick their fingers in their ears as it passed. LEGION PLANS AIR DERBY JUNE 16, 17

Ten Licensed Airplanes to Maneuver Over Rosko's Field in Air Program

STUNTS TO BE FEATURED

Derby Sponsored With View of Establishing Permanent Airport Here

Rosko's field will be made the center of attraction June 16 and 17 when the Carl Sidney Hanson Post No. 255, American Legion sponsor an air derby to be taken part in by ten licensed airplanes.

The program calls for formation of the flyers at 1:30 p. m. Saturday followed by parachute jumping, balloon races, air races, stunts. Citizens will also be given an opportunity to fly, safety being assured with competent pilots at the controls. Following flights all day Sunday, drawings will be made at 4 p. m. for free rides.

The derby is being held for the promotion of aeronautics here and the view in mind of creating interest to establish a permanent airport. With a suitable airport Brainerd will make a strong bid for a place on air-mail and passenger line service routes, at present considered by national corporations.

Members of the committee of the American Legion arranging the derby include: Dr. E. C. Herzog, Stewart Mills, Earl O'Brien, Jack Imgrund, Arthur Hagberg and E. H. Rhodes.

The entrance to the grounds is located at the end of the pavement on 13th street.

RAIN AIDS IN ROAD MAINTENANCE

Prolonged dry weather has had an adverse effect on Minnesota highways, according to the weekly condition report issued by the State Highway department today. The routes which are not paved or oiled are generally dusty and in some cases somewhat rough. If rain comes, as it did Thursday evening, it will help the maintenance forces in putting the road surface in good condition. Aside from dust and slight roughness, roads are generally good.

Additional detours have been put in effect on No. 10, due to construction, and a four ton load restriction is in effect between Delano and Montrose.

Detailed reports of conditions on the so-called Babcock highways marked with the official yellow star follow, insofar as they refer to the Brainerd Lake Region:

T. H. No. 2 — Duluth, Brainerd, Wadena, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead—260 miles—Duluth, paved—Carlton, good—McGregor, fair—Aitkin, good—Hawley, paved—Moorhead.

T. H. No. 18—Elk River, Milaca and Brainerd—103 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 19—Brainerd, Walker and Cass Lake—93 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 27—St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd—62 miles—Paved.

Eight Leading Women in Film at Lyceum

Howard Hawks has turned out another striking success in "A Girl in Every Port," Fox Films special now at the Lyceum. This time it is a yarn about a hard-fisted, soft-hearted first mate of a tramp schooner, who gets himself into no end of difficulties through his romantic adventures in every port of call.

DECISION UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Conviction of Roy and John Bryant of Assault in Second Degree Stands

STRUCK HJALMER A. OLSON

Court Rules Marshall is De Facto Officer But Assault Prevented Performance of Duty

The state supreme court today affirmed a Crow Wing court decision convicting Roy and John Bryant, Jenkins, Minn., brothers, with assault in the second degree following an attack on Town Marshall Hjalmer A. Olson, during a dance hall fight.

The marshall tried to stop a fight outside the dance hall at Jenkins on Oct. 15, 1927, and was told by Roy Bryant to "keep out of it and let them fight," Olson testified during the trial.

When he attempted to arrest Roy, John and some other men beat him up, Olson said.

The court ruled today that though the marshall is a de facto officer and not properly bonded, an attack on him to prevent the performance of his duty is second degree assault.

The case was appealed to the supreme court by Heath and Larson, attorneys for the defendants.

Score One for the Radio

Before the days of the radio the minister too frequently used to stand in his pulpit and looking over the array of empty pews, remark thusly: "I shall now address myself to the Great American desert." But today it is different. He now says: "I shall address myself to the unseen thousands who are listening in throughout radioland." That's what we would call making the desert blossom.—Wallowa (Ore.) Perfume Long Enjoyed

Perfumes were known in earliest civilizations. The Jews of the Old Testament used perfumes in the form of incense in their temples and tabernacles. Their women, as well as the Egyptian, Roman and Grecian women, used perfumes and cosmetics. It is probable that the perfumers' art originated in Arabia and that the products were carried to Egypt, Greece Rome and Palestine.

RAIN AIDS IN ROAD MAINTENANCE

Prolonged dry weather has had an adverse effect on Minnesota highways, according to the weekly condition report issued by the State Highway department today. The routes which are not paved or oiled are generally dusty and in some cases somewhat rough. If rain comes, as it did Thursday evening, it will help the maintenance forces in putting the road surface in good condition. Aside from dust and slight roughness, roads are generally good.

Additional detours have been put in effect on No. 10, due to construction, and a four ton load restriction is in effect between Delano and Montrose.

The DAIRY

AVERAGE OHIO COW PAYS SMALL MONEY

Owners of average Ohio milk cows are accepting a net profit of 45 cents a year or less, on each cow, whereas they might as well be receiving at least $84.80 a year. The dairy husbandry department of the Ohio State university estimates the average annual butterfat production for all the cows in the state at between 160 and 190 pounds. Records of costs and profits from several hundred members of cow testing associations of the state show that the average cow giving 200 pounds of butterfat during the year returns her owner a net profit of about 49 cents.

If the owners of these cows adopted improved and practicable methods of feeding, management, culling, and breeding, their returns might as well average $84.80 a cow—the figure for the cow which produces 400 pounds of butterfat a year. It would mean more money spent for feed and upkeep, but would return a greater net profit, to adopt these practices, it is shown in the records from the cow testing associations. The average 200-pound cow in the association cost $73.77 for feed, and $132.46 for her entire upkeep. The average 400-pound cow cost $95.14 for feed and $173.04 for upkeep total, which included feed cost. But the 200-pound cow's product was worth only $132.95 and the value of the product from the 400-pound cow was $257.84. Hence the difference.

General farm conditions, under which the average yield of butterfat for the state is less than 200 pounds per cow, are perfectly suitable for the cow which will give 400 pounds of butterfat, according to members of the dairy husbandry department of the university, and the practices and methods which will bring about the increased yield are perfectly practicable.

There were 2,431 cows in the cow testing associations of the state in 1927. The records kept by the owners in the associations show that the cow which gave only 150 pounds of butterfat during the year cost her owner $28.40 instead of returning any profit at all. The cow which gave 250 pounds of butterfat returned a profit of $20.33; the 300-pound cow paid $44.22; the 250-pound cow paid $63.15; the 400-pound cow paid $84.80; the 450-pound cow paid $110.80; the 500-pound cow paid $121.88, and the 550-pound cow paid $155.17.

Of the 2,431 cows whose records were kept and analyzed, 3.16 per cent were in the 150-pound class; 9.6 per cent were in the 200-pound class; 16.1 per cent in the 250-pound class; 23.2 per cent in the 300-pound class; 21.8 per cent in the 350-pound class; 12.8 per cent in the 400-pound class; 7.9 per cent in the 450-pound class; 2.7 per cent in the 500-pound class; 1.6 per cent in the 550-pound class.

The 300-pound group, which was the largest, paid $44.22 a year on their board bill, and the 350-pound group, which was the next largest, paid $63.15. These two groups included 45 per cent of all the cows in the association herds. For the 300-pound group the feed cost was $80.86 for the year, the total cost of upkeep was $150.11, the value of the product was $194.33.

In all groups the cost of feed and the total upkeep cost rose with the increased production, but the value of the product rose more rapidly than these factors, with the result that the more money spent on feed and upkeep returned a greater proportional net profit at the end of the year.

Ten Feeding Hints

1. Good roughages lower the cost of producing milk—feed all the cow will clean up, part of it being legume hay.
2. Include silage, beets, or beet pulp. The cows need the succulence and will produce milk cheaper on account of it.
3. Feed a balanced ration with plenty of variety.
4. Feed grain according to production: 1 pound of grain to 3 pounds of milk for Jerseys and Guernseys; 1 pound to 4 for Holsteins and Ayshires.
5. When pastures are short, feed grain; a 12 to 16 per cent protein mix will be satisfactory.
6. Soilage crops or silage helps fill the pail during short pastures.
7. Milk is 87 per cent water—see that the cows have plenty of it at all times.
8. Cows need salt—one or two pounds per hundredweight in the ration is sufficient.
9. Study your cows' likes and dislikes and cater to them when possible.
10. Know your feeds—the cheapest are not always the most economical.—C. B. Bender, in Farm Life.

Too Rich Cream

There are no advantages in producing a cream testing higher than 45 per cent. Too rich cream is undesirable because it tends to clog the separator; it increases the loss in handling due to sticking to the receptacles; it makes difficult accurate sampling and thereby tends to yield incorrect tests. It is desirable to produce somewhat richer cream in summer than in winter to prevent excessive souring in summer and difficult handling in winter.

The DAIRY

AVERAGE OHIO COW PAYS SMALL MONEY

Owners of average Ohio milk cows are accepting a net profit of 45 cents a year or less, on each cow, whereas they might as well be receiving at least $84.80 a year. The dairy husbandry department of the Ohio State university estimates the average annual butterfat production for all the cows in the state at between 160 and 190 pounds. Records of costs and profits from several hundred members of cow testing associations of the state show that the average cow giving 200 pounds of butterfat during the year returns her owner a net profit of about 49 cents.

If the owners of these cows adopted improved and practicable methods of feeding, management, culling, and breeding, their returns might as well average $84.80 a cow—the figure for the cow which produces 400 pounds of butterfat a year. It would mean more money spent for feed and upkeep, but would return a greater net profit, to adopt these practices, it is shown in the records from the cow testing associations. The average 200-pound cow in the association cost $73.77 for feed, and $132.46 for her entire upkeep. The average 400-pound cow cost $95.14 for feed and $173.04 for upkeep total, which included feed cost. But the 200-pound cow's product was worth only $132.95 and the value of the product from the 400-pound cow was $257.84. Hence the difference.

General farm conditions, under which the average yield of butterfat for the state is less than 200 pounds per cow, are perfectly suitable for the cow which will give 400 pounds of butterfat, according to members of the dairy husbandry department of the university, and the practices and methods which will bring about the increased yield are perfectly practicable.

There were 2,431 cows in the cow testing associations of the state in 1927. The records kept by the owners in the associations show that the cow which gave only 150 pounds of butterfat during the year cost her owner $28.40 instead of returning any profit at all. The cow which gave 250 pounds of butterfat returned a profit of $20.33; the 300-pound cow paid $44.22; the 250-pound cow paid $63.15; the 400-pound cow paid $84.80; the 450-pound cow paid $110.90; the 500-pound cow paid $121.88, and the 550-pound cow paid $135.17.

Of the 2,431 cows whose records were kept and analyzed, 3.16 per cent were in the 150-pound class; 9.6 per cent were in the 200-pound class; 16.1 per cent in the 250-pound class; 23.2 per cent in the 300-pound class; 21.8 per cent in the 350-pound class; 12.8 per cent in the 400-pound class; 7.9 per cent in the 450-pound class; 2.7 per cent in the 500-pound class; 1.6 per cent in the 550-pound class.

The 300-pound group, which was the largest, paid $44.22 a year on their board bill, and the 350-pound group, which was the next largest, paid $63.15. These two groups included 45 per cent of all the cows in the association herds. For the 300-pound group the feed cost was $80.86 for the year, the total cost of upkeep was $150.11, the value of the product was $194.33.

In all groups the cost of feed and the total upkeep cost rose with the increased production, but the value of the product rose more rapidly than these factors, with the result that the more money spent on feed and upkeep returned a greater proportional net profit at the end of the year.

Ten Feeding Hints

1. Good roughages lower the cost of producing milk—feed all the cow will clean up, part of it being legume hay.
2. Include silage, beets, or beet pulp. The cows need the succulence and will produce milk cheaper on account of it.
3. Feed a balanced ration with plenty of variety.
4. Feed grain according to production: 1 pound of grain to 3 pounds of milk for Jerseys and Guernseys; 1 pound to 4 for Holsteins and Ayshires.
5. When pastures are short, feed grain; a 12 to 16 per cent protein mix will be satisfactory.
6. Soilage crops or silage helps fill the pail during short pastures.
7. Milk is 87 per cent water—see that the cows have plenty of it at all times.
8. Cows need salt—one or two pounds per hundredweight in the ration is sufficient.
9. Study your cows' likes and dislikes and cater to them when possible.
10. Know your feeds—the cheapest are not always the most economical.—C. B. Bender, in Farm Life.

Too Rich Cream

There are no advantages in producing a cream testing higher than 45 per cent. Too rich cream is undesirable because it tends to clog the separator; it increases the loss in handling due to sticking to the receptacles; it makes difficult accurate sampling and thereby tends to yield incorrect tests. It is desirable to produce somewhat richer cream in summer than in winter to prevent excessive souring in summer and difficult handling in winter.

"Poor Mabel! She quarreled with Jack over her pet dog, and he declared she must either give up the dog or him."

"Well?"

"Well, in a fit of anger she said she'd give up Jack, and he had hardly left her before the dog got killed by an automobile."

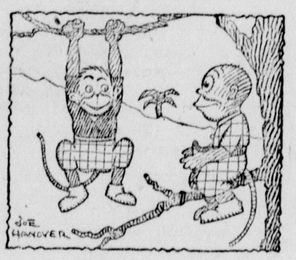

A Great Strain

James—Yes, sir, I've been out of work for a long time, but I managed to get a bit of a job last Sunday, and earned $5.

Parson—What, James, you broke the Sabbath?

James—Well, sir, one of us had to be broke.

JUST SO

First Monk—I'm gonna open a store.

Second Monk—More monkey business, eh?

Folly

The laughter falters for awhile,
And sorrowing draws near;
As reckless Folly seeks a smile,
But only gains a tear.

Inspiring

"Isn't that rainbow glorious!" ejaculated the honeymooning husband as he and his bride gazed at the wonders of Niagara falls.

"Perfect!" she enthused. "I must get a dress like it."—American Legion Weekly.

In Proof of It

Mrs. Gableigh—The doctor says that if you use your muscles more they won't trouble you.

Husband—I guess that's right. You never have the tongue ache.—Boston Transcript.

The Native Hue

Friend (viewing pictures)—Your colors are excellent. How do you get those blues?

Impecunious Artist—It comes natural, I suppose. I have them so often. —Boston Transcript.

Unfair Competition

"Why don't you believe that a talking device for movies will ever be successful?"

"There's too much competition."

"With whom?"

"The audience!"

Sounds Nice Anyway

Florida Realtor—I call this Sylvan Glade.

Tourist—I don't see any trees or grass.

Florida Realtor—Who said anything about trees or grass?

USED CARS

"Need any help, neighbor?"

"Yes, thanks! Got a screwdriver? I came away without all of my tools."

Turning the Tables

A little lamb in Wall street frisks,
On profits hopes to cram;
But Wall street, by some clever twists,
Soon frisks that little lamb.

A Tribute to Intellect

"Women are fools. I never knew but one really sensible one."

"Well, why didn't you marry her?"

"I asked her, but she wouldn't have me."
